To Whom It May Concern,

Dale McPherson is a mandatory contributor to the success of any project for optical systems. His wide range of skills and experience result in up front risk identification and mitigation like no other I have experienced. With risks identified and addressed early on, the success of the project is insured and delivered on time and right. Dale McPherson's contributions range from research and development, project conception through project management, manufacturing, and quality. Any aspect of a development project will benefit from Dale McPherson's involvement. Demonstrating success in LED to fiber coupled systems, optical sensing systems, laser applications, and proof of concept designs, Dale McPherson delivers to meet all project requirements while exceeding the customer's expectations. If I am working on an optical system design I always look to him first.

Sincerely,

Nelson Chandler
